

Circuit from St-Jean to Sauclières

Des Gorges du Tarn au Causse du Larzac

Sur le circuit... (Virginie Govignon - OT Larzac et Vallées)

Where the department of Aveyron meets the department of Gard, on the edge of the Larzac and bordering the Cévennes mountains: an amazing getaway in a landscape of moors and forests, which connects two villages of character

From the valley of the Dourbie to the eastern borders of the Larzac, this medium-difficulty loop takes you, through crests and valleys, brooms and undergrowth, to the discreet village of Sauclières. The stream of Roubiou, the old railway Tournemire-Le Vigan and the view on the ruins of the Algues castle embellish this beautiful walk

1. Go to the roundabout and follow the "Sauclières" sign to the right. Walk up the street for 250m, then take the Sauclières path opposite (signposted). About 2km further on, the path crosses the road to Algues (castle ruins) and passes near the hairpin bend of the D999.
2. Turn left onto the path under the retaining wall of the road. It descends towards the ford that crosses the Roubiou (stream), then climbs quite steeply to reach the road leading to Le Caussanel. Turn left onto the road towards Sauclières for 400m, crossing the bridge over the old railway line. You can take the path on the left after the bridge to reach the tunnel entrance (800m round trip) and retrace your steps. Follow the road to the right until you reach a junction with another road.
3. Turn right and make the round trip to visit the village of Sauclières. On the return journey, at the crossroads continue straight ahead to reach the D999, which you should follow to the left for 500 meters.
4. Turn right onto the path signposted "La Combe," pass "La Croix des prisonniers" (the Prisoners' Cross), and 150 meters further on, bear left onto the path leading to the pass called Col de Lavour. Continue along this ridge path. Then cross through extensive chestnut groves to reach St-Jean-du-Bruel.
5. Turn left at the intersection with the road to return to the starting roundabout.
